Hello Faculty,

I hope your summer finds you well. If you haven’t already started, you’ll be planning for the approaching semester and thinking about new teaching strategies soon. I'd like to invite you to attend the Empowering Teaching Excellence presentation that Susan Andersen, Bonnie Moore, and I are preparing for the August 16th conference on campus. Our session is based on the idea that learning and growth require risk taking and vulnerability. We will focus on the need for teachers to model risk taking in the classroom as a way of encouraging students to take their own risks with their learning. We’ll share our own experiences and then open a dialogue with the remaining time. Please see the attached flyer for more details.

The entire one-day conference is filled with many other break-out sessions that you might be interested in. More information can be found here:

"Taking Pedagogical Risks: Why It Matters"
ETE Conference Presentation

Wednesday, August 16
10:30 am
033 ESLC

Susan Andersen
Mary Ellen Greenwood
Bonnie Moore

empowerteaching.usu.edu/conference