English Students Present at USU Research Symposium | English

04/11/2017

The Student Research Symposium is Utah State University’s largest showcase of student research. SRS both celebrates student research and improves students’ ability to communicate their research. Each April during Research Week, over 300 graduate and undergraduate presenters share their research in the Library. Students deliver oral or poster presentations about their research findings while judges provide feedback and scores. Presenters with the highest scores in each category win awards. On Thursday, April 13, several English students or students working on English subjects will present. Faculty mentors for the student projects include Professors Christine Cooper-Rompato, Joyce Kinkead, and Brian McCuskey.

ORAL

Witches, Mothers, and Administrators: Evil Women in C.S. Lewis, Philip Pullman, and J.K. Rowling

Jessica Griffeth

Room 101, 9:00 AM - 10:15 AM

Philip Pullman and the Specter of Depression

Ethan Trunnell

Room 101, 9:00 AM - 10:15 AM

Railroad Literature as Seen by an Engineer: The Junction of Two Trains of Thought

Silvia Smith

Room 101, 3:00 PM - 4:15 PM

POSTERS

The Problematic Capitalistic World of Harry Potter

Lee Johnson

North Atrium, 12:00 PM - 1:15 PM

The Development of the “Evil Woman” in Fantasy Literature since 1940

Jessica Griffeth

North Atrium, 1:30 PM - 2:45 PM

Introduction to Differentiated Instruction In Utah Middle Schools

Justin Vance

Room 204, 1:30 PM - 2:45 PM

(Picture from Student Research Symposium)